The Little Match Girl (Happy Readers Book 4) Hans Christian Andersen
The Little Match Girl

It was New Year's Eve and one poor little girl was walking down the snow-clad streets. She had not sold a match all day, so she sat sadly at the corner of a street, took out a match and lit it. She started to see magical things in its light ...

The author wrote this story for his mother who had a very poor childhood.

About HAPPY READERS

Beautiful fairy tales and masterpieces that you have encountered in your childhood remain a warm memory even in your adulthood. Now you can revive these memories and indulge in the world of English masterpieces. You can enjoy the depth and beauty of the original works. The stories are easy to understand, due to familiarity. While you enjoy reading, your ability to understand English will also improve by leaps and bounds.

The series of "Happy Readers" is a special reading comprehension booster program for beginners whose command of the language is not satisfactory, or for elementary, middle and high school students. These students will enjoy reading masterpieces in English in a fun and efficient format.

The program is composed of five levels, from beginner, with 350 words, to upper intermediate, with 1,000 words. The program provides a level by level guide to help readers understand texts in English. The program is flawlessly conceived. It contains quizzes to help readers learn vocabulary and understand the meaning of texts, as well as fabulous illustrations that adorn every page.

The texts are rewritten, according to the levels of readers by an expert editorial staff of native speakers, on the basis of standard American English with the recommended vocabulary established by the Ministry of Education. Therefore, this program will be of great help even for curriculums in English studies. Let's indulge in the fun of reading and listening to English through "Happy Readers."
