The Hood is a figure whose existence is speculated by many but confirmed by none...

Deep within the closed-off, annihilated remains of what was once a thriving city, two lost souls band together for their very survival – and perhaps something more.

Cynthia Greene is one of the many young scouts tasked with delivering information of vital importance through the most dangerous of places. The life she leads is one of endless struggle, and very little chance for romance.

The Hood is a figure whose existence is speculated by many but confirmed by none; a mysterious individual whose knowledge of alien technology betrays his own otherworldly origins.

Driven by their own senses of purpose, the star-crossed lovers find themselves on a collision course with each other. When the unavoidable happens and they finally meet, will they use the energy of the impact to create something new? Or will they share the fate of the world around them and end in cinders?
